Gen Maitland of War Fame Turns Priest

IRON RIVER, Mich. (AP) — Brig. Gen. Lester J. Maitland, who quit as Michigan's civil defense director to study for holy orders, today becomes a priest in the Episcopal Church.

The 58-year-old soldier, who won medals flying warplanes, will be ordained into the priesthood at St. John's Church in this Upper Peninsula community he has served as a humble vicar for the past two years. He was ordained a deacon last December after serving as a lay minister.

Priding at the services will be the Rt. Rev. Herman Page of Menominee, bishop of Northern Michigan, assisted by 16 Upper Peninsula clergymen. The Rev. Mr. Maitland said in an interview development of nuclear weapons was one factor that led him to embark on his new career.

"I feel," he said, "that in the entire world there is too much humanism. The only answer is Christianity. I made my final decision three years ago. I watched the A-bomb and felt definitely it could destroy civilization."

Resigning as civil defense director two years ago, Maitland said, "The time to pray is now."

"I think a flier acquires a point of view, a philosophy peculiar to himself," he said. "He looks down from the sky, ways and sees how infinitely small men are and their works and how little enduring, while the vastness and agelessness of the mountains testify to God's handiwork. I have served Mammon; now I wish to serve God."

The Rev. Mr. Maitland, who first learned to fly in 1917 after graduating from high school in his native Milwaukee, said he hopes to get a small private plane for use in his ministry. He also serves St. David's Church at Sidway, Mich., and this means a 100-mile round trip by car each Sunday in preaching at two services.

During World War II, Maitland was a pilot.

Woods Bound Over in Death of His Wife

A statement by Mrs. Woods that she did not wish to prosecute was entered.

No Concession on Civil Rights Says Knowland

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif.) ruled out today any immediate steps toward compromising the administration's embattled civil rights bill.

The Senate GOP leader made the comment in advance of a private breakfast with President Eisenhower and before the Senate started a fifth day of debate on his motion to bring the House-passed measure before the Senate for action.

Knowland said flatly "there are going to be no amendments agreed to," nor any negotiations or agreements looking toward amendments, "until after the bill becomes the pending business in the Senate."

Southern foes of the measure, led by Sen. Russell (D-Ga.), have indicated they were angling for some understanding or softening its provisions before a vote on Knowland's motion to take it up.

Knowland said he was "very hopeful" a unanimous consent agreement could be obtained during the day for a vote on his motion early next week.

However, he admitted he had no assurance that Southern senators would not object. They planned a huddle in Russell's office to discuss the situation.

Knowland's breakfast appointment with Eisenhower followed by two days a White House interview Russell had with the President to explain why he and other Southerners regard provisions of the civil rights bill as "extreme" and "vicious."

Afterwards Russell said he felt the President's mind was not closed to "clarifying" amendments and indicated he entertained some hope that the administration might initiate a compromise move.

But Knowland told newsmen before seeing Eisenhower that the President had made clear he intended to leave any "clarifying" changes to his legislative leadership.

He said he was concentrating on "this first hurdle" — his motion to get the bill before the Senate.

However, his colleague Sen. Kuchel (R-Calif.) said in a separate interview he thought "it would be well for the White House to indicate its continuing support of the legislation of how it thought it might be clarified."

Knowland said he hoped he and Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas could join later in the day in offering a unanimous consent agreement to fix a time for voting on the motion to take up the bill.

Protest Photos of Defendants in Clinton Case

By HELMAN MORIN

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The United States government today was nearing the heart of its case — conspiracy — in the trial of 10 people who fought to keep Negro students out of a small town Tennessee high school.

"We are getting to the 'acting in concert' part of the story now," said U.S. Dist. Atty. John Calvin Crawford.

It is a story of animosity and deep-seated feelings about segregation in the pretty highland town of Clinton, population 4,500.

Members of the school board told the all-white jury hearing the case of a six-point manifesto presented to them by segregationists.

It asked them to poll the Negroes in Clinton as to their preferences of a school for their children, to send the Negroes back to an all-Negro school 20 miles away at Knoxville which they had been attending — and said, if they were unable to comply with these and other demands, to resign.

Other witnesses will describe riots that brought tank-like National Guardsmen to Clinton. Later, a Baptist minister, the Rev. Paul Turner, got a bloody nose and a beating for walking six Negro students to the school and seeing them safely inside.

Out of this violence came the "Clinton trials."

Today, 15 Tennesseans, including two women, and John Kasper, New Jersey segregationist leader, are on trial for criminal contempt. They are charged with knowingly defying a federal injunction against obstructing integration in the high school.

Clinton was the first state-supported Tennessee high school for white students to open its doors to Negroes. This followed the Supreme Court decision ruling segregation illegal.

The outcome of the present trial may show, legal experts say, whether the federal government will be able to enforce the Supreme Court ruling.

It also is adding important experience to another decision of the highest court — that, for certain purposes, defendants may have access to the secret files of the FBI.

U. S. Dist. Judge Robert L. Taylor ordered government attorneys to give the defense in this case documents from the FBI pertaining to principals in the case.

Crawford did so, fighting every inch of the way against the judge's ruling.

Signed statements had FBI agents' summaries of oral statements, from members of the county school board who handled the Clinton case were given to defense attorneys.

"They have been fairly helpful in cross-examining the witnesses," said Robert L. Dobbs, spokesman for the 19-man battery of defense lawyers.

A brand new procedure for this federal court saw the district attorney cut out — with a pair of scissors which he brought to court for that specific purpose — several paragraphs of a statement given by J. M. Burkhardt, former member of the county school board.

Old Feudist Turns Out to Be Distiller

BATESVILLE (AP) — A 50-year-old man who once was sentenced to a 5-year prison term in a feud case has been arrested near here and charged with opening a moonshine still.

Federal agents yesterday arrested Les Rutledge in the Hudson Mountain area 10 miles south of Batesville.

He was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Dean Lindsey at Batesville, bound over to the federal grand jury and released on $1,500 bond.

Agents of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division said Rutledge offered no resistance when they came upon him. The agents said they confiscated a 50-gallon copper still, seven 50-gallon fermenters, 200 gallons of ash and five gallons of whiskey.

In 1933, Rutledge was convicted of voluntary manslaughter after a Hudson Mountain gun battle in which Joe Beal, 45, was killed and Beal's brother, Frank, was wounded. Officers said the feud apparently stemmed from a dispute over a fence line between the Beal and Rutledge property.

Girard Says Japan Will Acquit Him

By GENE KRAMER

CAMP WHITTINGTON, Japan (AP) — William Girard predicted today a Japanese court will acquit him of charges of causing the death of a Japanese woman on a military firing range.

The 21-year-old U.S. Army specialist from Odessa, Ill., issued a statement to reporters a few hours after the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the American government's decision to turn him over to Japan for trial.

Asked about the high court's ruling, Girard said he had "no comment on the way it went."

Girard told reporters "I am hoping to get a fair trial" in the Japanese court.

His Army legal adviser, Maj. Stanley Levin of Hollywood, Calif., was asked earlier if Girard expects a fair trial and gave this reply: "I might not put it just that way but you can say that."

At Meabashi, where Girard will be tried, Dist. Court Judge Juzo Kawachi announced he will open the trial Aug. 26. He said other sessions will be held Sept. 6, 6, 13, 14 and Oct. 4.

Kawachi declared he will give the American GI a fair and fast trial and said he expected the proceedings to be completed in October.

Girard's prediction as to the outcome of the case was issued through Levin.

"It is our Army's belief," he said, "that the court will reach the conclusion that Specialist Girard was in performance of his duty and that it was a regrettable accident."

Girard has been indicted by the Japanese court on charges of "inflicting bodily injury resulting in the death" of Mrs. Naka Sakai, 46. He is accused of having fired an empty cartridge case from a grenade launcher that struck and killed the woman as she collected scrap metal on a firing range Jan. 30.

Girard and Levin said the GI expects to ask Isamu Hayashi, a prominent Japanese attorney, to serve as his chief defense counsel.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney said today, "There is an increasing and consistent body of evidence that excessive cigarette smoking is one of the causative factors in lung cancer."

But, Burney added, "It is clear that a heavy and prolonged cigarette smoking is not the only cause of lung cancer."

The statement was the first Public Health Service pronouncement on the subject since 1954 when it took note of evidence of a statistical association between cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

Burney gave no new proof, but cited results of previous studies, especially one by a special study group made public last March.

Burney's statement brought an immediate reply from Dr. Clarence Cook Little, chairman of the Scientific Advisory Board of the Tobacco Industry Research Committee.

Little said in New York that Burney's statement "adds nothing new to what has been known about the cause of lung cancer. It reflects the opinions of some statisticians and the relatively few experimental scientists who have actively charged that cigarette smoking is a cause of lung cancer."

Burney said: "While there are naturally differences of opinion in interpreting the data on lung cancer and cigarette smoking, the Public Health Service feels the weight of the evidence is increasingly pointing in one direction: that excessive smoking is one of the causative factors in lung cancer."

The special study group quoted by Burney was established in June 1956 by units of the Public Health Service in cooperation with two private health organizations — the American Cancer Society and the American Heart Association. The group was headed by Dr. F. M. Strong of the University of Wisconsin Medical School.

"The study group," Burney said, "reported that lung cancer occurs much more frequently among cigarette smokers than among non-smokers, and here is a direct relationship between the incidence of lung cancer and the amount smoked."

Hobby Is Restoring Ancient Fords, But in at Least One Instance His Offer Failed

By HAL BOYLE

MARYVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Hunting out and restoring antique autos has become the hobby of thousands of Americans who seek to revive the windblown joys of the days when motoring was young.

Charles and Kenneth Coulter, brothers who operate a florist business here, have traveled more than 10,000 miles in the last few years to build up one of the largest collections of old model Fords in the South.

There was one car the brothers didn't get to buy — for an unusual reason.

Learning that a woman in a small town saw a 1922 Ford, Charles went to see her about it. She willingly let him out to her barn and showed him the cobweb-covered vehicle, but balked at selling it.

in the upholstery," pointed out Coulter. "Soon they'll destroy it completely."

"Oh, that's all right," replied the aging lady, confidently. "Daddy will fix it when he comes back. He'd never forgive me if I sold his car while he was away."

Charles silently closed the barn door and left the car and faithful daughter.

"It happened to know," he recalled, "that her father had been dead 15 years."

Charles, whose arm was shattered by a Japanese bullet after 119 days of combat in the Pacific became interested in vintage vehicles after his return from World War II. He and Kenneth, his younger brother, now have more than 20. They include seven Model T Fords and three Model A Fords, a 194-year-old horse-drawn, glass-paneled funeral coach, and a

He Terms It 'Marriage of Convenience'

By HAROLD K. MILKS

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Nikita Khrushchev last night proposed a marriage of convenience between the Communist and capitalist worlds to avert war.

He also claimed Yugoslavia as a loyal member of the Socialist (Communist) camp.

"The sticky Soviet Communist party chief put forward his suggestion of marriage without love in the glittering ballrooms of Prague's 14th century Hradschin (pronounced Hrad-Chunny) Castle once the home of Bohemia's kings."

Turning to the envoys of capitalist countries attending the reception given by Czech President Antonin Zapotocky for the Kremlin leaders, Khrushchev said capitalists do not like the Communist system, "but I like it."

"But there are many cases," Khrushchev continued, "of people not in love getting married. They get along very well without love but with understanding."

"Let's try it. Let us complete do it peacefully."

Still aiming his words at the Western diplomats among the more than 1,000 guests, Khrushchev said: "I know, you don't like our system but we were not born with church bells ringing but with the sound of gunshots. Let us stop considering each other as enemies and try and get on."

Khrushchev "hinted" that Soviet relations with this Communist nation are so good they cannot be improved upon.

"But we want improved relations with other countries — with the United States," he said. "The United States is a strong and big country. We also think that we are not a small, weak country. I think we can be considered equals."

Holla Bend May Become Geese Refuge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hopes for establishment of a wild geese refuge in Arkansas' Holla Bend are brighter now that the General Services Administration has withdrawn its opposition.

The GSA yesterday dropped its previous contention that the 4,000 acres involved should be sold for agricultural purposes. The land is federally owned and has been ruled surplus.

Ed K. Mills, Jr., acting GSA administrator, told Arkansas Sen. John L. McClellan that the property "is available for transfer to the Department of Interior for use in connection with its national migratory bird" program.

McClellan said Mills' action means a green light for the project to proceed since the Interior Department has endorsed Arkansas' efforts to make the area a refuge.

The Holla Bend area was acquired by the government in a channel straightening program on the Arkansas River in 1932.

Deportation for Mother Who Slew 3

WASHINGTON — The Army today ordered the release and deportation of a British mother serving a life sentence for the murder of three of her children while stationed abroad with her American soldier husband.

She is Mrs. Eunice M. Brillhart of Rochdale, England. Her husband, Sgt. Robert W. Brillhart, now is serving with the Army at Sahia Bais in New Mexico.

The Army announced that the remaining portion of her life sentence which she is serving at the Federal Reformatory for Women at Alderson, W. Va., will be reduced so that she can be released on July 22 and turned over to the Immigration Service for deportation to Great Britain.

The Army reviewed the case following a Supreme Court decision on June 10 which forbade military courts from trying civilians for capital crimes committed abroad. The official announcement of Mrs. Brillhart's release today made no reference to the court ruling, saying only that the decision "was reached after consideration of all matters in extension and mitigation."

The Army said also that she will be deported because she was permitted to enter this country "only for the purpose of serving estate and cattle interests in the Virgin Islands."

1948 Lincoln which they bought because President Eisenhower rode in it during his first campaign.

Their goal is to obtain an open air version of each Model T turned out by Henry Ford between 1908 and 1927. "During that period he built 15,007,033 cars," said Charlie. "Survey a few years ago showed only about 6,000 were left. Now there are even fewer."

The brothers at first were able to buy the old cars as junk. Now they pay from $100 to $500 up, depending on its condition, may spend $2,000 more restoring it. One of their best bargains was a fully restored 1908 Model T which the Ford factory sold when new for $850. They paid $950 for it. "This is no way to get rich — it's purely a hobby," said Charlie. "But on the other hand a restored antique car is like money in the bank. If you take care of it, its value won't deteriorate."

Antique car collectors know no class lines. Other local hobbyists in this field include three Oak Ridge atomic scientists, two lawyers, schoolteachers, students, farmer and factory workers.

Behind the rusting hulk of a car in the Coulter yard waiting to be restored lies a pathetic story. A farmer who never learned to drive himself bought the car in 1927 to surprise his young daughter. A few months later she fell ill and died.

The father refused to sell the car, saying, "I couldn't stand to see a stranger drive that car past this road. Every time he did I'd think of my daughter."

He put the car in a shed. Snow collapsed its roof, and over the years the rain did its work. When Charlie learned about the car and told the farmer he wanted to restore it, the old man would take only $200 for it.

"When I started to haul it away, he broke into tears," said Charlie. "I offered to let him have it back, but he shook his head and said, 'No, take it. But when you get it fixed, won't you drive it back here and take me for just one ride in it — like my daughter did?'" ment of an unrecorded vote short of a formal roll call.

Charlie usually likes to take his time restoring his old cars. This is one he wants to get badly on the road as soon as possible — to make an old man happy.

In other congressional moves: 1. Bow introduced a new bill, as a result of the Girard decision, to change the U. S. Uniform Code of Military Justice which applies to all servicemen so that no serviceman "shall be subject to the criminal laws of any foreign nation."

This would be a companion measure to Bow's pending resolution which has the same intent. The resolution would go about it by ordering the President to seek revision of or denounce the status-of-forces agreements which provide for foreign jurisdiction over some offenses committed by GIs stationed abroad.

2. Rep. Keating (NY) senior House Judiciary Committee. Republican, announced he would introduce today a resolution to set up a special committee to study possible revision of the status-of-forces agreements, the Uniform Code of Military Justice and other arrangements for trial of U. S. citizens abroad.

3. Sen. Holland (D-Fla) predicted the Senate will give serious attention to some form of the re-tying amendment proposed by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio).

4. Sen. Thurmond (D-SC) said he would press for adoption of his resolution against surrender of any U. S. servicemen for foreign trials.

5. Rep. Ayres (R-Ohio) introduced a bill calling for a "full and complete" investigation of the Girard case.

Congressional comment on the Supreme Court decision ranged from hot criticism, mainly from those who favor the Bow resolution or dislike other recent high court rulings, to quiet support from those who side with the administration on the issue.

Rep. Gross (R-Iowa) told the House the decision was "another assault on the Constitution of the United States."

Discharged: Mr. Fred Aaron, Rt. 1, Hope, Melrose Johnson and baby girl, Hope, Mr. A. H. Boswell, Rt. 2, Rosston, Mrs. Chas. F. Martin, Rt. 1, Emmet, Mrs. John R. Hamilton, Memphis, Tenn., Mr. Mid Porter, Hope.

of the rights of the individual."

Sen. Russell (D-Ga), leader of the Southern fight against the administration's civil rights bill, said Girard "has been cast in the role of a sacrificial lamb."

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) said, "It is sorry indeed to think about the concern the court has recently demonstrated for the rights of criminals, traitors, witnesses before congressional committees and contrast it with their lack of concern about American servicemen's rights."

On the other hand Rep. Judd (R-Minn) said, "I think the decision will clear the atmosphere and the results will be helpful around the world."

Sen. Mundt (R-SD) said terms of the status-of-forces agreements are "unfortunate" but "you can't violate a treaty once you've made it."

Girard commented in Tokyo that he was "not surprised" at the decision. Later, through his Army legal adviser, he expressed confidence he will get a fair trial and will be acquitted.

But back in his home town of Ottawa, Ill., his family was shocked and saddened by the court's decision.

William's older brother Louis said, "I sure thought they (the court) were going to be fair about it. I didn't know anything like that could go on in this country."

Joseph S. Robinson, one of Girard's lawyers, said in New York that the case may become a political issue next year. He said that now the Supreme Court has spoken the only way to make a change is through congressional action.

Come On, Teens — Plan Your Own Activities!

Dear Dorothy Dix: In our town, there's nothing for teen-agers to do. We have Friday night dances but that's all, and job opportunities are limited.

Couldn't you give this town some suggestions? There are places that would make swell recreation halls, but there isn't money to rent and equip them.

We often hear about teen-agers who turn to wild sex parties, drinking and robbery for excitement. Most of the kids who do these things are good underneath, but have nothing to take up their free time.

Dear Twin Teens: You're oversimplifying. Teens who turn to sex parties and robbery for excitement have problems more serious than extra time on their hands — and they're not going to be satisfied with a square dance in a community hall.

You two are intelligent young-sters; can't you think up your own amusements? You'd have a fit if Mom tried to choose your clothes or your friends for you. Why do you need someone to plan your recreation?

Suppose you start by getting the gang together to plan some group activities. Recruit someone's basement, front porch or the Sunday School room for your base of operations.

You might put on a play. This would put to use talents for writing, acting, designing, directing — and you could charge admission. You could organize a ball team. Certainly you'll want to plan beach parties and picnics for the summer.

Spend part of the summer in learning. Get co-operative adults to teach classes in square dancing, French, swimming or general personality improvement. Form a book discussion group; cultivate gardens.

I've run out of space — not ideas — but these suggestions ought to take your minds off sex parties and drinking bouts.

Dear Dorothy Dix: How can I pry the telephone loose from my 14-year-old daughter? We have a party line, which she monopolizes, and no one in this household can get a ring in once she's on deck.

Dear Tina: Teen-agers are fairly. They're not going to stop talking. Explain the need others may have of the phone, buy an automatic timer, and limit her calls — at least in the evening — to reasonable time. What she can't say in five minutes had better be.

Discuss the situation with her instead of ordering her to stop talking. Explain the need others may have of the phone, buy an automatic timer, and limit her calls — at least in the evening — to reasonable time. What she can't say in five minutes had better be.

Dear Dorothy Dix: I'm in love with a man who simply cannot tell the truth. I can't depend on a thing he says.

Dear A. J.: Get yourself out of love as quickly as you can. A chronic liar makes a poor husband.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Am I unfair to object because my grownup children go around socially with my divorced husband's present wife? I divorced him some years ago for infidelity, and worked hard to support them. Now, because there are many social advantages to the association, they are quite glibly with their father and his wife.

Dear Joan: This very chic, modern, and adult age considers it the thing to ignore divorcees, and even ex-husbands and wives meet socially with this attitude. Your youngsters are merely living up to the convention. Don't blame them and don't feel resentment.

Auto Dealers Have to Pay $25 Fee

LITTLE ROCK (AP) Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett today said that automobile dealers legally must pay a $25 fee imposed by the 1957 Legislature despite a court suit.

Bennett said an act setting up an Arkansas Motor Vehicle Commission and levying the fee for its support is fully effective until the court rule otherwise.

The act is being contested in Pulaski Chancery Court.

HIS WORD

THE SWORD of the spirit is the word of God. Eph. 6:17: The cutting word is a two-edged sword; truth cutting through falsehood or the hurting word cutting into innocent hearts. Talking is a terrible responsibility. Words create or crush. Your words are your union card; they put you in the construction crew or the wrecking gang. Words are ambassadors of the mind... choose those that will make treaties of peace, not declarations of war. In America there are nearly 300,000 Churches where "His Word" is fed to hungry souls. The word of God is living and active and sharper than any two-edged sword. Jesus offered life to those who would hear His words and believe. You can be sure the best people are church-going people... do you go to church?

Sunday School Lesson

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

A correspondent has asked why this column, which once dealt with a single Sunday school lesson, has more recently been enlarged in range to broader Bible comment and the application of the Bible to daily life and character. The lessons and teachings of the Bible, except where the reference is directly to Jesus and the Gospel, transcend any particular lesson. Various lesson plans have been developed that go beyond the lessons more commonly studied in Sunday schools. The plans of the lessons, for which international sanctions have been sought, are to cover the whole Bible over a period of years in a recurring cycle.

Such a plan in its purpose and theory seems excellent, but it has this major defect: for long periods the lessons have little, if any, direct reference to Jesus Christ. His teaching, in His Gospel, seems to me that such reference is the chief end and purpose of religious instruction for young and old.

It is true that the Bible is a vast storehouse of human interest as well as a divine instruction and life-giving guidance. I cannot think of a single page of the English Bible that is not or that by comment and teaching cannot be made of great interest. Even the long genealogies and the most seemingly unimportant passages have had their importance for deep students and exact scholars.

But for the general Bible reader it is another matter. The plain teaching, the things that one who runs may read, tell of Jesus in His greatness, and the glorious Gospel of the Grace of God. Those matter above all else. I am a minister of the Gospel. In public and in press in four pastorates, preaching at various times in over two hundred churches, and in much editing and religious writing, my supreme purpose has been evangelistic. To make the Gospel in its saving power known and effective, and to reveal how the Christian way of life, following the teaching of Jesus is the only way of happiness and satisfaction for souls lost in sin, frustration, and floundering. I am a liberal in religion, joyously entering into Christian fellowship with all who will have fellowship with me. It is a matter of joy to me that this weekly column has brought many friendly messages from Roman Catholics, Unitarians, Jews, members of various denominations, and not a few nonchurch-going readers.

But, as much as an evangelist like Billy Graham, I, too, in my liberal way am an evangelist; my purpose is to bring people to Christ, and to bring Christ to people. So, when a few years ago, the occasion arose to make this column a broader and more effective means to that end, I welcomed the opportunity. Bureaucracy, of which we have heard plenty in government circles, has invaded organized religion to an extent of which the average free-minded layman has little conception.

When mistaken individuals, posing as authorities in religious education, sought to control this column, my editorial sponsors warned me completely to ignore them, and write the column in my own way. It has been wise often, though not always, to keep the column in the general range of what Sunday schools are studying, but all correspondence suggests that readers, as well as myself, have welcomed the development toward wider Bible comment, with more express emphasis upon the purpose of any true ministry, whether in church or newspaper, of help people to be Christians.

When Marilyn Monroe became the wife of playwright Arthur Miller, she decided to join the Jewish faith. The rabbi gave her a Jewish Biblical name, a name known only to the rabbi and Mrs. Miller.

1st Division for Orioles; They Win 2

By MILTON RICHMAN
United Press Sports Writer

Typographical errors, my eye! That's really the Baltimore Orioles right up there in the first division today, and it's the first time they have ever been that high this late in the season since they entered the American League.

The amazing Orioles reached the lofty region of fourth place last night by sweeping a two-night doubleheader from the fading Indians by the scores of 5-4 and 5-4 (no typo, either), the first game going 11 innings.

Pilot Paul Richards, who makes the type moves no other manager will dare, gave a Hodin-like exhibition last night in an all-out effort to crash the first division.

He yanked starter Ray Moore in the seventh inning of the first game even though the score was tied and he had two strikes on Roger Maris. Ken Lehman completed the strikeout but he needed help from Georgeeverink in the last of the 11th fear the Orioles had scored two runs in the top of the frame on singles by bugs Triandos and Jim Busby.

Then, in the nightcap, Richards pulled out Bill Wright in the third inning even though Baltimore had built a 5-0 lead off Bob Lemon. He again called in Zuverkrin, who gained his eighth victory, and when the hard-working Zuckerin weakened in the eighth, Richards led with his ace, Billy Lee.

All that masterminding paid off in the Orioles' 14th victory in their last 20 games. They are now a half game ahead of both Cleveland and Detroit, and only three games behind the third-place Red Sox, who defeated the Tigers yesterday, 9-7. The Yankees stretched their league lead to 3½ games when Mickey Mantle's 23rd homer in the 11th inning produced a 3-2 triumph over Kansas City, and Washington rallied for two runs in the ninth to beat the second-place White Sox, 6-5.

The Phillies took over second place in the National League by capturing a two-night twin bill from the Cubs, winning the 11-inning open, 1-0, and the final, 2-1. The Giants defeated the Cardinals, 1-0; Brooklyn edged Cincinnati, 5-4, in a game marked by fist fights; and Milwaukee beat Pittsburgh, 7-2.

Pinch hitter Gene Stephens drove in the winning run in the 10th inning for the Red Sox after Tiger reliever Lou Sleator caused his own downfall with a pair of errors on the same play.

Mantle's homer came at the expense of reliever Tom Morgan and it gave the Yanks their 12th victory over the Athletics in as many games this season. Yogi Berra also homered for New York.

Rocky Bridges' single with the bases loaded in the ninth inning off Paul Palmie was the blow that gave the Senators an uphill win over the White Sox. Jim Landis and Jim Rivera had given Chicago an early lead with homers.

Granny Hamner's 11th inning single helped the Reds to their victory in the opener after Bob Rush of the Cubs had held them hitless until the eighth. In the nightcap, Jack Sanford and a perfect game going until Dale Long singled with one out in the eighth, Sanford wound up with a four-hitter and his 11th win of the year.

Southpaw Johnny Antonelli and battery-mate Valmy Thomas were the whole story in the Giants' victory over the Cubs. Antonelli hurled a fivehitter and Thomas homered in the sixth inning off Lindy McDaniel, as the Cardinals' lead in the National League was whittled to two games.

The Dodgers came from behind to defeat the Redlegs when Duke Snider hit his second home run of the game with one out in the seventh inning off Tom Acker. Snider's second homer came shortly after a flare-up between Cincy pitcher Paul Sanchez and Dodger infielder Junior Gilliam that precipitated an even livelier first fight between Charley Neal and Don Hoak. The whole fuss started when Gilliam felt Sanchez had thrown a pitch too close to him.

Johnny Logan's two-run homer featured a four-run fourth inning rally that brought the Braves their victory over the Pirates. Bob Trowbridge went all the way for Milwaukee although tagged for 12 hits, while Bob Friend suffered his 10th setback.

Little League Sponsors Film at Saenger
